This leading stamp show of the Rocky Mountain West offers numerous attractions for collectors, including:

This year the show organizers are expecting to fill the 400 available frames with world class exhibits from convening societies. The exhibition is an APS Champion of Champions Exhibition qualifier, which guarantees a high level of exhibits.

There also is a separate George Brett Cup Competition, which is sponsored by the American Association of Philatelic Exhibitors (AAPE) and features exhibits of 20th Century material, with over 150 frames that qualified to be included.

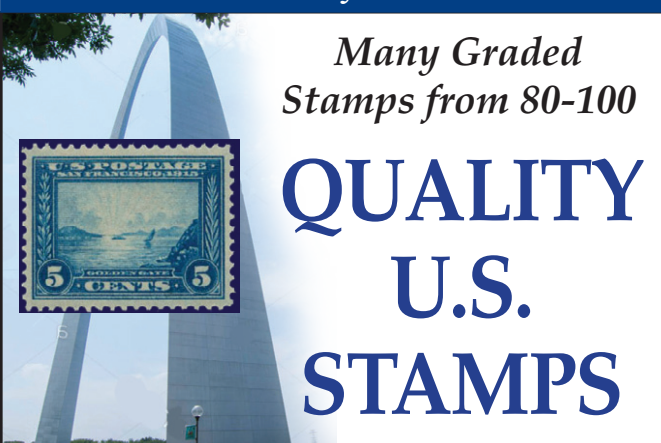

Participating philatelic societies include the American Association of Philatelic Exhibitors, American Airmail Society, Scandinavian Collectors Club and the Colorado Postal History Society. Each of these groups will have meetings during the show as well as booths where they can provide information about their activities.

The 2025 show theme is Celebrating Scenic Colorado, which will be carried out on show cancels and cacheted covers.

• Once again there will be a Stamp Camp for youngsters and a popular "What's in Your Attic?" booth where you can learn about an inherited accumulation or rekindle your interest in a long-neglected collection.

The CYPHER Stamp Club (Colorado Young Philatelic Explorers and Researchers) also will have youth activities, including Stamp Collecting Merit Badge classes, scheduled throughout the show.
